AMRA/MAP Names New Manager

Arlington Heights, IL – September 22, 2015

The Automotive Maintenance and Repair Association (AMRA) announced the addition of Timothy L. Hatcher to its staff as Manager, Technical Operations. Timothy's duties include overseeing MAP Technical Committee activities, establishing topics and presenters, as well as managing the association's various technical services for membership.

Timothy graduated cum laude from Southern Illinois University Carbondale with a baccalaureate in Automotive Technology. Along with his studies at SIU, Tim worked delivering IT support to the automotive program, maintaining and troubleshooting the campus network, computers and diagnostic equipment. Over the past five years, Timothy has worked for Bridgestone Retail Operations as a Service Manager and Store Manager. While at BSRO, he utilized his technical and management education, aiding in the day-to-day operations of the service shop as well as the retail store operation. Timothy is an ASE Master Technician with L1 Advanced Certification.

"Tim is a terrific addition to AMRA's staff. His technical education and experience will be especially valuable to our membership and Technical Committee," said AMRA/MAP President & COO Joseph M. Henmueller. "We look forward to tapping into Tim's diagnostic and troubleshooting skills of advanced automotive technologies to help enhance MAP's consumer education materials."

For over 20 years, AMRA has been providing Uniform Inspection and Communication Standards to the automotive repair industry through its consumer education and outreach initiative, the Motorist Assurance Program.
